

IMSA Search announce new Member in Norway

📅 JANUARY 8, 2019 | ☰ NEWS

IMSA Search is pleased to announce that our leading global executive search network has grown again. We are introducing the Search House from Norway as a new member. Our Network now consists of 22 member countries and 47 offices worldwide.

“Norway is a key market in Northern Europe and several IMSA clients will strongly benefit from this new partnership,” said Marianna Carbonari, board member of IMSA International Executive Search: “This new cooperation is an important step towards IMSA constant process of international development.”

Introducing IMSA in Norway

Search House is the leading independent recruitment company in Mid-Norway, having expertise in methodology for business analysis, selection and process management, specially designed for the recruitment of executives and managers.

The company was established in the late autumn of 2012 by partners Jan Gunnar Storli, Jo Temre and Eilif Solem. From that day, the company founders have proved their experience in the fields of recruitment and selection of senior and other managers and specialists for, both the public and the private sector. Thanks to its unique knowledge, broad experience and excellent business insights, the company provides a deep understanding of client’s needs, business activities, corporate organisation and culture.

The current Managing Partner in Search House is Jan Gunnar Storli, who focuses on executive search and recruitment of senior management and Board Directors, as well as organisational development. The clients are mostly big organisations from a wide range of sectors:

- manufacturing,
- banking and finance,
- food industry,
- aquaculture,
- energy industry,
- high tech
- public agencies.

Storli has exercised a variety of operative leadership roles in the Norwegian Air Force, as an in-house consultant in the field of organisational and management development. He was also a Major appointed at the Norwegian Ministry of Defence, which he combined with 11 years’ experience in the private sector.

His experience comes from the periods spent both as a line manager within major organisations and as a consultant and manager within international consultancy firms.

Jan Gunnar Storli, IMSA Norway

“We are very proud to have joined IMSA International Executive Search. We strongly hope that the new partnership will allow us to receive and share exceptional knowledge and experience thanks to the collaboration with other country members. We are highly motivated to continue our further cooperation, as well as nurture further growth in our own market,” says Jan Gunnar Storli.

“Search House has proven experience in managing both private and public clients, which will be a tremendous added value to IMSA,” said Marianna Carbonari: “We expect to develop a fruitful and long-lasting relationship with IMSA Norway.”

***

IMSA Search is a leading international executive search network operating in 22 countries and 47 offices across Europe, Middle East, Africa, Asia & the Americas. Members of the IMSA International Executive Search network are all boutique search firms. We provide our customers with an international level of executive search services with access to a broad network of potential candidates. If you would like to contact any of our members for national or international executive search assignments please refer to our Global Offices page to find the necessary contact details or leave us a message using the form on the Contact Us page.

